

"Today more than ever life must be characterized by a sense of responsibility, not only nation to nation, human to human but human to other forms of life."

DALAI LAMA

"Today more than ever life must be characterized by a sense of responsibility, not only nation to nation, human to human but human to other forms of life."

DALAI LAMA